Overview

The Jamaica Screen Development Initiative (JSDI) is a financing initiative of the Government of Jamaica (GOJ), which aims to support and strengthen the local screen-based industries by providing a pool of funds accessible for the completion of eligible screen-based projects across various stages of development. Its focus is providing opportunities for new, emerging, and established talent behind the camera to create more, high quality, Jamaican content capable of competing in the global market.

Core Objectives

The following four objectives will be used when assessing applications. These take into consideration preferred outcomes for the growth of the Jamaican screen-based industries and Jamaica as a whole.

1. Film Financing: providing a source of financial support for screen-based projects made in Jamaica across various stages of screen-based productions and spanning local content creation, co-productions and destination films.
2. Talent and Industry Development: increasing jobs while building the capacity of creative and technical practitioners by increasing the number of high-quality, commercially viable projects produced for domestic and global audiences.
3. Promotion of Jamaican Culture: raising the profile of the Jamaican screen-based industries and Brand Jamaica internationally by supporting projects with strong cultural representation.
4. Business Opportunities: promote economic diversification and better position inward investment particularly for film infrastructure.

Guiding Principles

The following principles have guided the fund design to ensure:

- Transparency in the granting process, governance, and fiduciary management
- Accessibility to opportunities for Jamaicans worldwide to produce culturally Jamaican content for local and international audiences
- Distribution of Risk between individual businesses and the public and private sectors
- Global Best Practices are used to position Jamaican content for success both locally and internationally
- Adaptability to local Jamaican realities, including building upon initiatives that have brought success (and learning from those that have not)
- Inclusivity in experience (that is, levels and voices in terms of age, economic background and gender) and scope of project (that is, the JSDI will NOT support projects of blatantly pornographic nature, projects advocating violence, or projects inciting a violation of human rights.)

Programme Overview

Support under the JSDI is provided through six programme categories, with different lending and/or granting arrangements depending on the phase of production, stage of development, experience of producer, level of Jamaican ownership and Jamaican spend. The fund is primarily geared towards Jamaican production and co-production, but international productions that satisfy basic eligibility criteria can also apply.

Multiple Applications

Applicants may submit multiple applications for funding in the following cases:

- A single project qualifies for a funding category and also qualifies for subsequent funding categories within a year of the first application. For example, a project qualifies for development funding and subsequently qualifies for production and completion funding – resulting in one (1) project, but three (3) applications.
- A single project wishes to apply both for the grant and the loan available under a specific category, such as for Development, resulting in two applications.
- A single writer or producer has a slate of projects. Each project will require a separate application submission and will be assessed on its own merit.
- A project has been selected to be exhibited at multiple film festivals where grant funding would be required. Each film festival acceptance will require a separate application submission and will be assessed on its own merits.

Evaluation and Selection Process

Application Validation Process

All applications submitted will be subject to a validation check to ensure mandatory eligibility criteria are met and that all sections of the application have been completed. In addition, checks will be made as to whether all mandatory documents have been uploaded with the relevant information for the evaluation included.

Should an application be ineligible, correspondence will be sent to the primary applicant advising that the application has not been accepted for consideration. Where such an application requires amendments, an opportunity to amend and resubmit an application may be extended to the applicant.

For all other category types, that is, Film Festival and Market Attendance, Marketing and Distribution, and Production Rebates, there will be an annual rolling acceptance of applications by JAMPRO, which are evaluated individually and funded upon successful evaluation. Film Festival and Market Attendance applications must be for film festivals and/or film markets scheduled to be held no less than 5 weeks beyond the date of submission to the JSDI. The JSDI will fulfill its funding commitments to Film Festival and/or Film Market applicants who had received their Funding Confirmation Letters prior to attending the festival and/or market.

The JSDI will not consider Film Festival, Market Attendance, Marketing and Distribution nor Production Rebate applications for events/projects executed or commenced prior to launch of the Call for Applications on March 18, 2024, or having received the Funding Confirmation Letters prior to attending the respective activities/events¹.

Evaluation of Applications

The process of evaluating applications will vary based on the type of application that is being considered.

- I. For applications that are under the Development, Production and Completion Support categories, there will be a call of applications no more than two to three times per year after which an Evaluation Committee external to JAMPRO will be convened to review the applications with no less than five evaluators being assigned to every application. Each evaluator will provide independent evaluated scores for each application, which will be used during the selection process. Evaluators will be assigned based on their experience in a particular area to ensure that the skills and experience match with the application being evaluated.

These independent evaluators selected from a pool of international and local

¹ Notwithstanding the requirement that FF/MA applications must be submitted at least five (5) weeks prior to the event date, applications that were received, evaluated, and approved before the adoption of this revised guideline on February 27, 2025, shall remain eligible for disbursement.

Governance Structure

Jamaica Promotions Corporation

The Jamaica Promotions Corporation (JAMPRO) is an agency of the Government of Jamaica's Ministry of Industry, Investment and Commerce (MIIC), and is responsible for the promotion and facilitation of business opportunities in export and investment to the local and international private sector. As the Government entity created to stimulate the development of industries, such as Film and other Creative Industries, JAMPRO will lead the implementation and administration of the JSDI through two main channels.

- I. Jamaica Film Commission: The Commission was established in 1984 and operates alongside the Film, Animation, Music (FAM) department within JAMPRO. The Jamaica Film Commission is mandated to promote the Jamaican film industry through facilitation of activities that increase investment, export, and employment in the sector.
- II. JSDI Project Office: A Project Office will be established to work alongside the Film Commission to administer and operationalize the JSDI. Led by a Project Manager, the Office will be accountable to the Oversight Committee for overall performance and compliance on meeting the milestones and accountabilities established for implementation of the Initiative.

JSDI Oversight Committee

An Oversight Committee will serve as the governing body providing direction, guidance, and leadership to ensure efficient implementation and effectiveness of the activities to attain success and alignment with fiduciary practices of the Government of Jamaica.

This governance committee will be appointed by the JAMPRO Board, based on nominations presented by the Film Commission, with industry input. The Committee will also appoint and monitor a Project Manager to manage the activities of the JSDI.

JSDI Evaluation Committee

Members of this Committee will be appointed by the Oversight Committee and will comprise local and international film industry experts possessing the requisite knowledge and expertise to evaluate applications and provide recommendations for the award of funding. The Committee members' key objective is ensuring that projects are in alignment with the Initiative's objectives, criteria, and fiduciary practices. This Committee will play a pivotal role in ensuring the fair and effective implementation of the JSDI. Each member of the Committee undertakes independent evaluations, and the Committee will only meet to finalise application reports.

Government of Jamaica Cabinet of Ministers

The Cabinet of Ministers, which is the Executive leadership of the Government of Jamaica has a fiduciary responsibility for the project budget allocations, including any adjustment to disbursements limits, as well as any single awards in excess of J$60 M.
